Dr. James Kaufman, founder and President of The Laboratory Safety Institute will offer a pre-conference all day seminar entitled "Safety in the Laboratory." Dr. Kaufman has been called "the nation's foremost authority on safety instruction in academia" and he is the author/narrator of the American Chemical Society's audio-course "Laboratory Safety and Health." The safety seminar will provide you with the information needed to make your laboratory a safer place to work. You will take home the knowledge to develop or improve your lab safety program and comply with the OSHA Lab Standard. The seminar will be held on Saturday, July 25, 2009 at the hotel. The fee for this all day workshop is just $395. [LSI reserves the right to substitute another qualified instructor in place of Dr. Kaufman if necessary.]
